Reclaiming Youth International is proud to announce its newest training opportunity for youth care professionals...

The PersonBrain™ Model

Using NeuroScience to Connect with Children and Youth

Created by Dr. Paul Baker, a developmental neuropsychologist, The PersonBrain™ Model is a neurorelational training program designed to empower adults with critical supportive skills needed to transform troubled children and youth. Using modern neuroscience and the best of positive, ecological and relational psychology, this innovative program teaches the essentials of how the brain, body, culture and relational ecology function together to impact one's overall life experience. Through Relational Retraining™ helping professionals learn to use brain-preferred interactions that support positive socio-cultural behaviors and transform the lives of troubled children and youth.
