Inge Bolin Receives the Circle of Courage Award

Dr. Inge Bolin, 2009 recipient of the Circle of Courage Award at the Victoria Seminars, is back from another trip to Peru where she lives and works with the people of Chillihuani who live high in the Andes. Dr. Bolin is a Research Associate in Anthropology at Malaspina University - College in Nanaimo, British Columbia.

She wrote: "I am back from Peru. It was wild and wonderful. Our health station is being built, our health campaigns are going well, a new reforestation project begins, and my research on melting glaciers and water scarcity indicates that we all must work together to avoid an environmental disaster.

Growing Up in the Care of Strangers

A book review of:

Growing Up in the Care of Strangers

Waln K. Brown and John R. Sieta, contributors and editors

William Gladden Foundation Press, 2009

BUY IT NOW!

The editors of this book, Waln Brown and John Sieta, are well known to many of our colleagues in the reclaiming youth network. They have compiled a very compelling collection of stories from others who have shared experiences in the foster care system. Brown and Sieta also contributed their own stories to the nine others that make up this book. Foster care is used in a general sense in this book and includes various ways that publicly established systems of care approached services for these children who had been displaced or were in danger.
