

Reclaiming Youth Conference
Downtown Holiday Inn Express
Nashville, Tennessee
October 10-12, 2009

The 2009 Autumn Reclaiming Youth Seminars will take place amidst the stunning autumn colors in Nashville, Tennessee. Join us as we gather in this vibrant Music City+, rich in southern comfort and cultural history. As in our other seminar locations, this seminar will provide affirmation and introduce new skills for all adults who work with today's most challenging youth. Participants will benefit from opportunities to visit with experts in the child and youth care industry will inspire and rejuvenate both new and experienced professionals in youth care and education. All sessions will reference the Circle of Courage model and are grounded in resilience research showing that inner strengths and external supports are essential for positive youth development.

The Reclaiming Youth Conference offers practical skills for success with our most challenging children and youth. Participants will tackle the problems of building safe and reclaiming schools, racism and substance abuse, families in crisis, understanding the adolescent brain, and connecting with kids in conflict.

Optional College Credit

Undergraduate or graduate workshop college credit in either Psychology or Special Education is available. Registration forms and course syllabi will be available at the conference. Payment for college credit is made at the conference (do not include with your conference registration).
